

Government action so children do not pay for a parent's crime

Children with a parent in prison will be identified earlier and connected to support under a new government pilot to help them thrive