

Government action to avert summer prison disaster

The prison system would have collapsed entirely by summer if not for the Government's decisive action to keep the public safe, new analysis has revealed.