

Government agrees landmark plans to lay down the tracks for direct trains to Germany

A direct rail link between London and Berlin could change how people travel between our two countries.