

Government asks Ofcom to promote investment and improve protection for consumers in telecoms market

For the first time Government sets out the priorities it wants Ofcom to focus on so people can benefit from faster, more resilient internet connections