

Government-backed technologies support those living with dementia

Cutting-edge research networks backed by government to tackle debilitating symptoms of dementia including memory loss and communication difficulties