

Government backs high street with acceleration of cheap import reforms and crackdown on dodgy online sellers

High street businesses are set to benefit from action to level the playing field as the government sets out tax and customs reforms.