

Government brings British Steel into public ownership to protect UK steelmaking

The Government has today (16 July) taken British Steel into public ownership to protect the future of steel production in the UK.