

Government dismisses rumours

Regarding the rumours on the Internet that "the Government would soon publish in the Gazette a requirement for civil servants to take an oath and renounce their BNO status", a government spokesman clarified today (July 3) that the rumours are unfounded.

The Government will report the progress of the study on the proposal on oath-taking by civil servants at the Legislative Council Panel on Public Service meeting next Friday (July 10).