

Government launches bold plan to 'turn up' the music industry

The UK music industry will benefit from a range of new powers and investment as the government unveils a new long-term plan to back the sector.