

Government Skills trials AI video in civil service course update

Government Skills is using the new technology for the first time on the Civil Service Expectations course and wants feedback from learners.