

Government speeds up reforms to protect children from harm

Extra £18 million injected into councils in England to roll out children's social care reforms that prioritise earlier intervention.