

Government steps in to back long-term resilience of UK's chemicals and ceramics industries

The Government has announced new funding packages for the ceramics and chemicals sectors, worth £120 million and £350 million respectively.