

Government to strengthen security of internet-connected products

New legislation to improve security standards of internet-connected household devices