

Government to unleash the North Sea's clean energy future

The government is consulting on plans to put the North Sea at the heart of Britain's clean energy future and drive economic growth.