

Government to unlock philanthropic investment into England's most disadvantaged communities

Government today launches plan to make it easier for the wealthiest in society to give back to communities that need help most