

Government unveils new era for British Sign Language (BSL) by championing accessible communications

The government has launched new 5-year plans to improve the use of BSL in individual departments to help break down barriers for Deaf and disabled people.