

Graves of four soldiers killed in 1940 identified in France

Four British servicemen who died during World War Two in France have been rededicated, bringing closure to families after more than 85 years.