

Health assessments to be recorded as standard in major transparency drive

All face-to-face and telephone health assessments for disability and sickness benefits will be audio recorded as standard from today to improve transparency in the benefit system.