

Healthcare regulator suggests simple winter wellness choices to keep you safe this cough and cold season

As the cold weather sets in and coughs and colds become more common, the MHRA is reminding people that small, everyday choices can make a big difference to winter wellbeing.