

Home building stats show sector is bouncing back

Support for all of those involved in the housing market and construction industry has led to an increase in the number of completed homes.