

Homeless children need better information and independent advocacy to help understand their rights

Ofsted has today published new research on how local authorities support homeless children aged 16 and 17.