

Hong Kong Customs mounts joint operation with FEHD against smuggled hairy crabs (with photo)

Hong Kong Customs and the Food and Environmental Hygiene Department (FEHD) seized a total of about 17 000 suspected smuggled hairy crabs and about 1.1 tonnes of suspected smuggled frozen food with a total estimated market value of about $1.59 million in a joint operation at Man Kam To Control Point on October 22.

Customs officers on that day intercepted an incoming goods vehicle at the control point. After inspection, the suspected unmanifested hairy crabs and frozen food were found mingled with other properly declared goods.

The suspected unmanifested hairy crabs are estimated worth about $1.53 million and the suspected unmanifested frozen food including meat and poultry is estimated worth about $60,000.

Furthermore, the hairy crabs seized did not come with health certificates issued by the relevant authorities of the exporting economies and failed to comply with the requirements of the Shell Fish (Hairy Crab) Permit. The frozen meat and poultry seized also came without health certificates issued by an issuing entity from the place of origin or obtaining prior permission in writing from the FEHD.

The 47-year-old male driver was arrested. An investigation is ongoing.

Customs reminds members of the public that smuggling is a serious offence. Under the Import and Export Ordinance, any person found guilty of importing or exporting unmanifested cargo is liable to a maximum fine of $2 million and imprisonment for seven years.

According to the Imported Game, Meat, Poultry and Eggs Regulations, any person who imports game, meat, poultry or eggs should produce a health certificate issued by an issuing entity from the place of origin or obtain prior permission in writing from the FEHD. Offenders are liable on conviction to a fine of $50,000 and six months' imprisonment.

According to the Public Health and Municipal Services Ordinance, all food available for sale in Hong Kong, locally produced or imported, should be fit for human consumption. An offender is subject to a maximum fine of $50,000 and imprisonment for six months upon conviction. Moreover, under the Food Safety Ordinance, any person who, without reasonable excuse, does not register but carries on a food importation or distribution business commits an offence and is liable to a maximum fine of $50,000 and imprisonment for six months.
