

Hundreds more schools to save on bills as government solar drive slashes millions off energy costs

First wave of schools to get government-funded solar will save £220 million on their bills to reinvest in children's education