

Hypersonic missiles development accelerated by new contract

The development of the new hypersonic missiles will speed up thanks to a £12 million contract which will benefit British-based businesses.