　　Since its launch, the "Smart Silver" Digital Inclusion Programme for Elders has been providing digital training and technical support to assist the elderly in mastering digital skills. The introduction of "iAM Smart" self-registration kiosks will further enhance the function of community services and enable citizens to use public services in a more convenient manner. The operation of the "iAM Smart" self-registration kiosk is simple. Members of the public can complete the registration or upgrade to "iAM Smart+" users promptly through the kiosk, allowing them to enjoy the convenience of one-stop access to online public services, such as eTAX, Contactless e-Channel, SmartPLAY, eHealth, voter registration, and enquiries, through the "iAM Smart" mobile app.

"Thanks to the support of the three community-based help desks, the DPO will continue to collaborate with district organisations to arrange more self-registration kiosks at suitable locations, with the aim of benefitting more citizens," a spokesman for the DPO said.

Members of the public can visit the "iAM Smart" thematic website (www.iamsmart.gov.hk/en/reg_location.html) to check the locations and service hours of the self-registration kiosks, and the DPO website (www.digitalpolicy.gov.hk/en/our_work/digital_government/digital_inclusion/) to learn about the details of various activities under the "Smart Silver" Digital Inclusion Programme for Elders.
