

Increasing automated detection capabilities at the UK border

Border Force wants to expand its use of artificial intelligence in the searching and screening of freight at UK seaports by automating anomaly detection.