

Insolvency Service reveals £57 million returned to the economy and thousands supported through financial distress

The Insolvency Service has 'made significant strides in improving services and delivering value to customers', says interim Chief Executive Alec Pybus.