

Khayelitsha Cookies to be sold on British Airways flights

South African business Khayelitsha Cookies secured UK contracts worth more than R1.4 million to supply British Airways flights and private-label shortbread, increasing exports and supporting employment for women.