

Landmark government investment to safeguard the essential signals we all rely on

Critical services will be better safeguarded, thanks to £155 million government investment to boost national security and deliver national renewal.