

Largest home antibody testing programme for COVID-19 publishes findings

Findings published by Imperial College London today suggest that 6% of the population in England, around 3.4 million people, have been infected with COVID-19.