

Less paperwork, more chargepoints: government cuts red tape to make it easier, quicker and cheaper to switch to EVs

Drivers no longer need to submit planning applications to install electric vehicle chargepoints, helping them save up to £1,100 a year.