

Local communities to receive £79 million to restore nature

Environment Secretary announces local communities to receive £79 million to restore nature and adapt to climate change