

Major steps forward in government office estate rationalisation

The Government Property Agency (GPA) has closed another two London properties, moving a step closer to its target of £32 million cost savings this year.