

Man who raped and threatened woman has sentence increased

A man who raped and threatened to stab a woman he had been watching for six months had his sentence increased following the Solicitor General's intervention.