

Man who threatened rape and murder against air steward has sentence increased

A man who threatened an air steward with rape and murder on an international flight had his sentence increased after Law Officers intervened.