

Media law reforms to boost press sustainability and protect independence

People's access to independent and accurate news will be better protected under updated government rules, which will modernise powers around media mergers while supporting investment and growth.