

MHRA and Department for Education embed medicine safety into school curriculum to empower young people

The importance of medicine safety and how to report side effects of medicines via the Yellow Card scheme is now part of the statutory guidance for schools in England.