

MHRA-led study reveals major inconsistencies in global microbiome research

International collaboration establishes new quality standards to improve reliability of gut health studies – improving accuracy to provide better diagnosis and treatment.