

Kuwaiti health care prize shows care for elderly, minister tells 76th World Health Assembly

GENEVA: The Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Sabah Prize for research in health care for the elderly reflects their position as a major development priority in health programs, Kuwait's Health Minister Dr. Ahmad Al-Awadhi said on Friday.

"The elderly deserve care and attention in recognition of their sincere efforts during their (lives)," Al-Awadhi told the 76th World Health Assembly at the award ceremony this week, reported Kuwait News Agency.

Turkiye's forex reserves turn negative ahead of critical runoff vote

ANKARA: As Turkiye heads to a critical runoff vote to determine the nation's president on Sunday, the central bank's net foreign exchange reserves turned negative for the first time since 2002, dropping to minus-$151.3 million on May 19, due to increased market demand since the first round of the elections.

Palestinian children continue to bear the brunt of Israeli actions

RAMALLAH: Israeli security forces arrest about 1,000 Palestinian children from the streets, schools and homes of the West Bank each year, and about the same number from East Jerusalem on suspicion of involvement in attacks or protests.

Children's rights organizations say such practices are abusive and harm youngsters' physical and mental health. They are prohibited by international laws and agreements related to children's rights, to which Israel is a signatory.

House of Jordanian ambassador attacked in Khartoum

AMMAN: Jordan's Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Expatriate Affairs announced Friday that the house of the Jordanian ambassador in Khartoum was attacked and vandalized.

It also confirmed that ambassador Saed Radaideh and his embassy staff were at Port Sudan at the time, and that none of them were harmed in the attack.

The Ministry affirmed Jordan's condemnation and denunciation of all forms of violence and vandalism, especially those that violate the sanctity of diplomatic buildings.

3 World Cup security guards jailed in Qatar for demanding unpaid wages

LONDON: Three men who worked as security guards during the FIFA World Cup in Qatar remain in jail five months after the conclusion of the tournament over a dispute about their contracts.

Shakir Ullah and Zafar Iqbal, both from Pakistan, and an unnamed Indian colleague were allegedly jailed for six months and fined 10,000 Qatari riyals ($2,746.5) each after remaining in Qatar when their employment was terminated three months early by local firm Stark Security Services.