

Millions in water company fines to power local-led restoration

Water companies who broke environmental rules are now funding the recovery of England's waterways by local communities and environmental groups.