

Millions invested in new missile to strengthen British Army's capability and NATO deterrence

The UK will join the Precision Strike Missile (PrSM) programme, supporting a transformation in the British Army's ability to strike targets further away and strengthening the UK's contribution to NATO deterrence.