

Millions invested to boost UK's position as a global tech leader

The government is investing an additional £4.5 million in the LawtechUK programme over the next three years.