

Modernised aid budget will focus on impact, value for money and transparency

New aid funding figures published today show how the international aid budget will deliver value for money for the British taxpayer – and maximum impact for the most vulnerable overseas.