

More than one million helped get connected and get online thanks to government digital inclusion action plan

More than a million people including the elderly, unemployed, and people living in rural communities have benefited from the combined efforts of government, industry and charities to boost digital inclusion and help more peo...