

National review calls for urgent action to protect vulnerable unborn babies and infants

A national child safeguarding review has called for urgent action to better protect vulnerable unborn babies and infants, following the tragic death of baby Victoria Marten.