

Natural England launches dive survey to monitor kelp forests

The survey will take place in the waters of the Fal and Helford rivers next week to track changes and inform conservation action.