

New campaign to 'demystify' creative jobs for young people

More young people from underrepresented backgrounds to be launched into careers in the creative industries as part of the Plan for Change