

New drainage standards tackle pollution in England's communities

Developers encouraged to reduce pollution, protect communities from flooding and benefit nature as part of government's ambition to build 1.5 million homes.