

New Highways England gritters take to the road

Ninety-three new state of the art gritters will be patrolling England's motorways and major A roads this winter as part of a multi-million investment to help keep traffic moving in severe weather.