

New legislation gives Government power to bring British Steel into public ownership

New legislation to be announced in the King's Speech on Wednesday will give government the option to bring British Steel into public ownership.